

1. How can you be environmentally friendly at work?

The best way to take care of the environment at work is to reuse paper that is only written on one side, turn off and disconnect equipment that is not being used, only print documents that are strictly necessary in physical form, have plants that besides decorating produce oxygen, avoid the use of single-use plastics, for example for coffee, carry a cup for personal use, avoid the excessive and unnecessary use of air conditioners.

2. What kind of incentives could a green company offer to its employees?

Recycling programs, efficient use of the printer and encouraging bicycle commuting are just some of the measures that companies can take to get their employees involved in caring for the environment, employees can obtain benefits for complying with these programs such as extra bonuses, paid days off, celebrations with the family.

3. In what other ways could businesses involve their employees in environmental issues?

Creating an ecological awareness is essential for employees to become increasingly involved in programs that not only sensitize them to the problem of ecological damage, but also provide them with opportunities to socialize and obtain benefits, companies can carry out internal ecological campaigns that involve all employees to create a sustainable ecological awareness and to achieve this, each employee must be committed to this cause. It is the task of the company itself to promote environmental commitment among employees.
